

Provision of traffic and weather information via satellite radio is beneficial as it allows persons to have instant access to vital information which affects the health and safety of the public. For those who travel a great deal, knowing exactly where they can tune a radio to receive this information is very comforting. Allowing a select few to govern the needs of the whole is contrary to public interest. Please do not limit technology and information by allowing big money contributors to stifle the marketplace. Competition is the key advantage in our society and the big commercial radio suppliers don't want to have to compete with satellite. Force their hands, competition is good and makes the whole better.
